III. Put the paragraphs of the following article in the correct order :

96. In her later years Miss Keller lived near Eton, Connecticut. She spent her days reading, writing, and answering her vast volume of mail. In 1946 she won the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the highest U.S. civilian award.

97. Helen Keller (1880-1968) was a U.S. author, lecturer, and educator who led an active life despite severe handicaps.

98. In 1913 Helen Keller made her first speaking tour. She was willing to lecture for groups that would help the blind. Her trips took her around the world.

99. In 1890 Helen went to a school in Boston to learn to talk. Miss Sullivan was her companion there and also later at Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Massachusetts. Helen graduated with honors and then began to study the problems of blind people. An autobiography of her early years, The Story of My Life, was published in 1902. It explained many of the problems she had in learning to read, write, and speak. Later books included The World I Live In, Out of the Dark, Helen Keller's Journal, and Let Us Have Faith.

100. Her parents asked the Perkins Institution for the Blind in Boston, Massachusetts, for a teacher. In 1887 Anne Sullivan came to the Keller home to educate Helen. Anne used a doll for the first lessons, spelling the word d-o-l-l into the child's hand. This was a new game for Helen, and she learned words quickly. Within a short time, Helen came to know that everything had a name, and after three years she could read and write in Braille .

101. She was born in Tuscumbia, Alabama, and was a normal, healthy baby. She had a serious illness before she was two years old. When she recovered, she could no longer see nor hear, and she had forgotten how to talk.

A. .... B. .... C. .... D. .... E. .... F. ....

IV. Read the following article quickly and match each paragraph with one of the headings on the right. There is one extra heading :

- a) The importance of mental health
- b) Avoiding diseases
- c) Everyone must know about his or her body
- d) What health means
- e) Why many people are sick
- f) The human body compared to a machine
- g) The value of health in ancient times

102. .... Health is the condition of complete well-being and of fitness. We are healthy when all parts of our bodies and of our minds work together properly. We cannot be happy unless we feel well .

103. .... The ancient Greeks knew the value of good health. They even named one goddess Hygeia, which means goddess of health. Hygeia was the daughter of Asclepius, the god of medicine. The Greeks prayed to her to give them good health.

104. .... The Romans spoke of health in a proverb: "A healthy mind in a healthy body." In addition to physical health, an understanding of mental health is also important. The body does a great deal to take care of itself, but by learning a few important health rules, it is possible to help the body to work at its best.

105. .... Many people will say: "Good health means not being sick." That is true. Health is certainly the absence of disease. But health is more than that. Good health is something positive. We have good health when our bodies and our minds are able to work at their best.

106. .... The human body is much more complicated than any machine. Yet it needs less day-to-day care than the machine. No machine can do all the things the body can do. No machine will work for 70 years or more, day and night, requiring only air, water, food, and a few simple rules. No machine has been made which can adjust to so many different conditions as the human body.

107. .... Each individual needs to know about this machine called a body so he can help each part and the body as a whole to work at its best.
